

Brick type: Worcestershire Red Multi
Location: Tamworth, Staffordshire

Project Architect: Bloor Homes
Developer: Bloor Homes

Different property styles use the brick in slightly different ways and the single use of one brick type adds cohesion to the development while allowing each property style to exhibit its own personality.

Marlborough Park

Marlborough Park is a highly sought after development of two, three and four bedroomed homes in Tamworth, Staffordshire.

This large contemporary development includes 16 different styles of accommodation ranging from two bedroomed apartments to four bedroomed houses. All of the homes have been finished to an exceptionally high standard by house builder Bloor Homes.

The brick chosen for the complex was Forterra's Worcestershire Red Multi, a light textured brick that features a range of different hues to help give this new build development a traditional feel.

Different property styles use the brick in slightly different ways and the single use of one brick type adds cohesion to the development while allowing each property style to exhibit its own personality.

The colour of the brick also perfectly offsets the white windows and doors and tones beautifully with the roof tiles.

The colour of the brick also perfectly offsets the white windows and doors and tones beautifully with the roof tiles.